Chapter 1 by J.W. Leary

Walking down the hallway for the first time they feel angry, nervous, excited, scared, and happy. They are happy because they are now in a clean environment. Their books are much cleaner and nicer than the textbooks from their old school. They are nervous and scared because they have new teachers, they are surrounded by white students. They act tense and defensive, avoiding confrontation. Stacey and Cassie make lots of friends on their first day at J.W. Leary. They are not called names by students or teachers. They are surprised at how much smaller the classes are here.
